Kivunim has joined forces with Sugia to give you a unique Jewish experience, by creating an exciting virtual Beit Midrash for all our alumni to do some traditional/not-so-traditional "learning" together using a unique online format.

Sugia is a cutting-edge, new media platform, using active discourse and harnessing the collective wisdom of the Jewish people. Sugia fosters vibrant dialogue on the burning ethical and existential issues of our time, offering a new way for Jews worldwide to encounter, engage, and think together. Ancient texts spring to life through their interaction with modern film, art and literature, in an interactive, user-generated experience.

Sugia is inspired by the Talmudic tradition of 'machloket', the unique invention of our ancestors, who created a mode of constructive debate that builds bridges rather than walls. Its basic goal is to foster and facilitate Talmudic-like debate and discussion among the intellectual, spiritual and professional leaders of the Jewish people, using cutting-edge social media and technological tools of our own time - a Facebook-like, wiki-like, online, digital Beit Midrash forum.

Sugia was developed by Udi Lion, a unique combination of Talmud-educated, traditionally practicing, media savvy, TV comedy producing human being (he's the producer of Avodah Aravit!). I want to encourage you to sign up and try it. It may not work for all, but it is bound to capture the imagination of many of you. It will only expand your mind and thinking, whatever your major or professional or other life commitments may be. Let me know what you think.

With all warmest best wishes!
